Crelan is increasing the interest rates on two savings accounts from 27 July

From 27 July 2026, Crelan will be increasing the interest rates on two of its savings accounts. The Crelan Horizon Plus savings account will see an increase in its loyalty bonus, whilst the Crelan GoSave account is set for a rise in its base rate. These changes are in line with the bank's commitment to offering savings solutions tailored to different types of savers.

The Crelan Horizon Plus savings account, designed for customers who wish to grow their savings over the long term, will see its loyalty bonus rise from 1.20 per cent to 1.50 per cent on an annual basis for new deposits as well as for amounts for which the loyalty period is renewed. The base rate remains unchanged at 0.10 per cent. The maximum authorised balance on this account is 500,000 euros.

For its part, the base rate of the Crelan GoSave account, designed to encourage regular saving, is set to rise from 0.50 per cent to 1.50 per cent on an annual basis. The loyalty bonus remains at 1.50 per cent. Payments are limited to 500 euros per calendar month, in order to encourage people to build up their savings gradually.

With these changes, Crelan continues to develop a diverse range of savings products, allowing everyone to find the option that best suits their financial goals, whether that is building up a financial reserve over time or making the most of savings they have already accumulated.

These changes further strengthen the Crelan's savings product range, which offers solutions tailored to a variety of needs: saving regularly and prioritising returns linked to loyalty.

The new rates will come into force on 27 July 2026.
